

Goering Says Nazis Did Not Plan Offensive Action In West

By NOLAND NORGARD
Nurnberg, Germany, March 18 (AP)—Hermann Goering testified before the International Military Tribunal today that the Nazis never considered any offensive action against the western hemisphere.

The number one defendant at the war crimes trial here, taking the witness stand in his own defense for the fifth day, also asserted that Nazi efforts to make an economic penetration in South America were unavailing in the face of competition by the United States and Britain.

"Threatening the American continent was never spoken of," Goering declared, adding:

"Even if Germany had completely dominated Europe her small fleet and lack of bombers would have forbade any aggressive action against the United States."

Goering's denial of the existence of any Nazi plans to attack the western hemisphere came during questioning by Martin Horn, attorney representing Joachim von Ribbentrop, who strove to show that the former foreign minister actually had been unable to guide Hitler in the determination of German foreign policy.

To questions on prosecution charges that the Nazis conspired to gain domination of Europe, Goering replied that "conspiracy may be variously interpreted."

"In the sense that it would mean men would plot secretly and in the dark about secret plans—that, of course, never took place," he said.

Close To Hitler

"In the sense that the fuhrer had comprehensive conferences and out of them decided on certain things—you can mention conspiracy only in that connection."

Apparently striving, as in preceding days on the witness stand, to shoulder as much responsibility as possible for the Nazi's policies, Goering declared that "no one else worked with the fuhrer as closely as I. No one else had the influence I had. Only the fuhrer and myself could conspire. No one else was concerned."

He explained that he referred only to the period before his relations with Hitler deteriorated, in the closing days of the war.

NUPTIALS READ ON SATURDAY

Ruthanna C. Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph V. Bowers, Boyer street, Littlestown, became the bride of Bruce M. Phipps, York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Phipps, Street, Md., on Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. in St. Mary's Reformed Church, Silver Run, Md. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. A. E. Shenberger. The bride was given away by her father. There were no attendants.

Preceding the ceremony, an organ recital was given by J. Herbert Springer, Hanover, a former piano instructor of the bride. He played "Fanfare," by Dubois, and "Air on the G String," by Bach. Mrs. Norman Hunter, Westminster, Md., sang two selections, "O Lord Most Holy," by Franck, and "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte. At the processional, the church choir sang "O Perfect Love." During the ceremony, the "Melody in F" was softly played by Mr. Springer, who also played the recessional. The altar was decorated with calla lilies, ferns and lighted candles.

The bride wore an oyster white bengaline dress with leg-o-mutton sleeves, and a three-quarter length veil. She carried a white Bible with two white gardenias with white streamers tied with sweet peas.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the immediate families at the home of the bride.

Need Rooms For 20 Students

Gettysburg college authorities today issued another appeal for rooms for more than 20 students who will arrive here this weekend. They will enroll at the college on Monday and start classes on Tuesday.

The response from the last appeal for rooms "was very generous" college authorities reported, "but we are in urgent need of rooms for more than 20 more young men, discharged veterans, who are resuming their interrupted courses in higher education."

Local residents who can arrange to house these veterans are urged to call Dean Tilberg at 86-X at their earliest convenience.

The college will furnish the single beds for the students.

RECALL EARLY TRIBULATIONS OF OPENING OF HOSPITAL HERE

The 25th anniversary of the founding of the Annie M. Warner hospital celebrated Sunday, sent a number of local residents reminiscing about the early days at the establishment.

The hospital started its existence with but three nurses, including Superintendent Carrie Stout, assistant superintendent and operating room nurse, Miss Helen Hart and Mrs. Ralph Geiselman, then Miss Esther R. M. Miller, night nurse.

Members of the hospital staff had placed spreads over the beds for the open house held prior to the official opening of the hospital and when the time came for the first patient to arrive had to make up the bed with sheets and pillows in a rush before the patient reached the hospital.

Dirt Driveway

There was much talk among the nurses and others concerning the flat roof of the building, with most believing the flat top had been adopted so that if another story were wished it could be added.

The driveway to the hospital was a dirt road and the grounds were yet to be landscaped and planted. Dr. J. A. Singmaster was a familiar figure about the hospital as he directed the workers in laying out much of the shrubbery and grading the lawn in front of the hospital, and in completing the driveway.

Nurses enjoyed most the Victrola and albums of records given by the late Harry Kime for use in the nurses' recreation room. While most of the records were classical, it was recalled, the nurses soon remedied that and the strains of the popular tunes of the day echoed frequently through the halls of the hospital.

Model Chicken House

The recreation room was located where the X-ray room is now with the nurses having their rooms in the section now given over to the accident and therapeutic rooms. The superintendent's room, was located there where the X-ray machinery is now kept.

Where garages now house the ambulance and other vehicles the earlier hospital employees found a huge chicken house.

The first maternity ward and nursery was outfitted with two beds and two bassinets on wheels and was located where the delivery room is now, according to one of the first employees at the hospital. That arrangement soon proved unsatisfactory.

Frank Slonaker, first orderly, found his hands full with landscaping and such things as a hand operated elevator in which the operator had to stand on the first floor and pull ropes in order to raise the elevator to the second floor. Occasionally inexperienced handling by volunteer rope pullers put the elevator

SEVEN TONS OF CLOTHING GIVEN IN COUNTY DRIVE

The Victory Clothing Collection which centered in Gettysburg but which attracted contributions from many county communities netted more than seven tons of clothing for needy civilians in war-torn countries abroad, Cloyd Shetter, Gettysburg Lions club chairman for the community effort, has been advised.

The official report on the amount of clothing collected was received by Mr. Shetter today from the national headquarters of the Victory Clothing Collection.

The report was accompanied by a letter of congratulation from Henry J. Kaiser, national chairman for the clothing campaign.

Thanks Epley and Others

The seven tons and 690 pounds of clothing, trucked from Gettysburg to Trenton recently, included 12,640 pounds of clothing and hundreds of pairs of shoes which weighed a total of 2,050 pounds.

The donated clothing was to be baled at Trenton for overseas shipment. The clothing left Gettysburg in cartons and filled one big covered moving van. The shoes, tied in pairs, followed about 10 days later.

Chairman Shetter expressed his gratitude today to all of the persons who donated clothing and who helped to organize and conduct the clothing campaigns here and in a score of other communities in the county.

His special thanks, he said, go to C. W. "Red" Epley for the free use of his former machine shop on South Washington street as the clothing collection center for the town and county during the clothing appeal in January and early February.

Morris F. Angell, Elmira, N. Y., arrested by borough police early Sunday morning on South Washington street on charges of reckless driving and disorderly conduct, forfeited fines of $10 each on the two charges and costs today when he failed to appear before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

Police said Angell, who was staying at a local hotel, attempted to induce a Gettysburg girl to get into his car with him, and that on South Washington street he drove the car up on the sidewalk and stopped her. The police car, making its rounds, saw him and after investigating, officers arrested him. He was committed to jail but furnished bail Sunday afternoon.

Architect's Sketch Of New County Jail

The Adams County commissioners will soon — possibly this week — ask for bids for the construction of a new county jail on the basis of plans prepared by John B. Hamme, York architect. Mr. Hamme's drawing of the jail's exterior design is shown above. The commissioners have not yet announced a final decision on the controversial site for the new prison. Citizens and the Chamber of Commerce objected to the first site selected along the Biglerville road at the edge of town. As a compromise, it was suggested that the jail be built some distance east of the highway, nearer the county home buildings.

STATE GUARD TO BE INSPECTED; PUBLIC INVITED

The federal inspection of Troop C of the State Guard will be conducted Wednesday evening at the state armory along West Confederate avenue, it was announced today by Capt. C. Arthur Brame as he invited the public to visit the armory to witness the inspection and to enjoy an "open house" planned that evening by the guard unit.

Weapons, records and equipment will be inspected at 4 o'clock in the afternoon while the troop and its training will submit to federal inspection at 8 p. m. The company already has made "fine records" on two previous state inspections and is seeking a high rating in Wednesday's checkup.

The federal inspection of State Guard units throughout the Third Service Command was begun March 4 and will be completed March 26. It is conducted, according to official announcement, for the purpose of indicating whether federal support rendered each guard unit is merited by the efficiency of the units. A thorough examination is being made of training, ordinance, equipment and other federal property of the troop.

The inspectors will examine, for the benefit of the commanding general of the Third Service Command, the adequacy of training aids and equipment, the use made of facilities, the suitability of local plans for the employment of the Guard and the ability of the Guard to alert on short notice.

Ushers will be on hand Wednesday evening to assist visitors.

Iranian Crisis Is Approaching Breaking Point; Look To UNO

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, March 18 (AP)—With a single week remaining until UNO's Security Council meets, the Iranian crisis neared the breaking point today—and Russian-American relations tensed perceptibly.

A steady stream of reports of new difficulties and sensational incidents in the strife-ridden Middle Eastern country brought these latest top developments:

1. The American vice consul at Tabriz, Robert Rossow, was detained half an hour at a Red Army post last Friday. This was three days after the United States told the world that instead of pulling out of Iran, Soviet forces were moving through Tabriz deeper into that country. The Russians expressed regret, and the State Department here said it attaches no significance to the incident.

2. While little of what is happening in Tehran squeezes through the tight lid of secrecy, one report officially forwarded here came to light. It said the Russian diplomat in Tehran had warned Premier Ahmed Qavam es Sultaneh that Russia would consider it an unfriendly act for the Iranian government to re-open its case before the United Nations Security Council. There is no evidence, however, that the Iranian premier in any way has modified his earlier word to the United States government that Iran would present its case.

3. American officials' best estimate of the possibilities at the moment is that the Russians may try either to break Qavam's resistance or pull off a coup d'etat to put a new government in power. The immediate Soviet objective would be to get official Iranian authority for the presence of Red army troops in Iran. Those troops were supposed to have been withdrawn March 2, and the fact that they still remain is the key point in the entire Iranian crisis.

4. The tenor of American-Russian relations was set meanwhile by Secretary of State Byrnes with his assurance on the one hand that the American government does not intend to enter into a military alliance with Britain and his insistence on the other that the U. S. must act immediately to maintain and strengthen its armed forces. To do this he called for extending the draft law beyond its May 15 expiration and the enactment of peace-time military training.

Byrnes' statements were made in a New York speech Saturday night. He said this country has no intention of joining a military alliance with Russia against Britain or with Britain against Russia. But he did hammer home the point that the United States takes the United Nations seriously and is building its foreign policy upon that organization.

Here And There News Collected At Random

Will Gettysburg turn its clocks ahead one hour and operate on Daylight Saving Time this year?

The question has popped up again, now that many neighboring communities have officially announced that they will operate on new time.

Some Gettysburgians are beginning to discuss the matter and it is likely that it will be made a matter of business and decision by the town council.

The old perennial question always brings forth much discussion . . . some favor Daylight Saving Time, others are opposed to the new time for the summer months.

Proponents cite the extra hour of daylight the new time affords . . . especially for Victory Gardeners . . . giving day workers an extra hour for evening relaxation and play. They also point to the fact that practically every large city and all major radio stations operate on the new time for the April-through-September months. They also claim that confusion prevails among residents of small communities if Daylight Time is not adopted.

On the other hand opponents opine that farmers are opposed to Daylight Time, and this they say, being an agricultural community. (Please Turn to Page 8)

U.B. Church Will Honor Veterans

Returned servicemen will be honored at a special program to be conducted this evening at 8 o'clock at the Memorial United Brethren church with Dr. Harry P. ## Four Drivers Are Charged By Police Oscar N. Knipel, Jr., Hanover, speeding, before Justice Brown. A ten-day notice will be sent.

Warren Douglas Powell, Richmond, Va., speeding, before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder. Fine of $10 and costs paid after Powell pleaded guilty to the charge.

Marsby C. Little To Be Reelected

Marsby C. Little, former assistant superintendent of the Adams county schools, will "likely receive the unanimous support of the board of school directors" when he comes up for re-election as superintendent of the Waynesboro Public schools Tuesday, April 9, it was learned today.

MINISTERS TO ARRANGE FOR DVBS IN JUNE

The Methodist church was selected for the annual union Good Friday afternoon service and plans were launched for Gettysburg's first community daily vacation Bible school at the March meeting of the Gettysburg Ministerium Sunday evening at the home of the Rev. Roy K. Miller, near Gettysburg.

The Revs. Miller and Howard S. Fox were named to a committee to make arrangements for the community church school to be conducted during two weeks in June. Details of the arrangements will be announced later. Although individual churches here have conducted vacation Bible schools this will be the first school of its kind ever conducted here on a community basis.

The Rev. Floyd A. Carroll, Methodist pastor, will be in charge of arrangements for the community Good Friday service in his church at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon, April 19. An out-of-town speaker will be secured for the service in line with a custom of several years' standing here.

Consider Special Activities

The Ministerium's committee to investigate the possibility of arranging for special bus service to bring residents of surrounding rural sections to Gettysburg churches and Sunday schools reported "progress."

The group took under consideration a proposal to bring to Gettysburg next winter a series of outstanding preachers as was done at the Methodist church during the last few months. No final action was taken.

The ministers voted full cooperation with a group of Gettysburg college students preparing a religious directory of the community and the Rev. W. N. Zoblir was directed to prepare church bulletin information for posting in public places in the town for the benefit of community visitors.

All of the town pastors attended the meeting with the Rev. J. Herbert Miller, Hershey, as a guest.

RED CROSS HAS NEARLY THIRD OF DRIVE QUOTA

Nearly one-third of the quota for the Adams County Red Cross fund drive had been subscribed as of this morning, with most of the $4,135.89 raised so far being donated by Gettysburg residents. Only scattered reports from a few other districts have been made so far.

Among the larger donations announced today were $50 from the local Elks, $35 from Britcher and Bender and $25 each from the John C. Lower company, Gettysburg Ice and Storage company, the First National bank of Gettysburg, Lippy's, and the Wednesday Bridge club. The Delta Gamma Alumnae association gave $15.

More Contributors

Gifts of $10 each were recorded from Mr. and Mrs. Roy Weaver, J. Elmer Musselman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Snyder, Chi Omega alumnae, the Shoe Box and Blocher's Jewelry store. Donations of $5 were made by Etta K. King, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Riley, Mrs. J. I. Hereter, Mrs. James Caldwell, Mrs. LeVan dress shop, Nellie's Beauty shop, Chritzman's and the City market.

Red Cross officials, sending in a partial report to area headquarters concerning the progress of the drive, pointed out that the county will in all probability have met its quota when full reports are available from all sections of the county. Amounts from a large number of donors are still in the hands of solicitors who are completing their work before turning in their amounts to the county office.

The drive will end March 31 by which time the county chapter hopes to have topped the $14,050 quota.

HIGH SENIORS TO GIVE CLASS PLAY 2 NIGHTS

Seniors of Gettysburg high school will present their class play, "The Ghost Flies South," on Thursday and Friday evenings in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. Price of admission will be 50 cents.

"The Ghost Flies South" is a comedy in three acts by Frederick Jackson. The play is under the direction of Miss Ruth Scott, dramatic coach.

The cast of characters includes: "Anita Meredith," Betty Teeter; "Diana Meredith," Marbeth Reed; "Grandma Bantry," Nancy Amick; "Morgan Winthrop," Raymond Redding; "Mrs. Morgan Winthrop, Sr.," Betty Lee Moser; "Tyler Rankin," Virgil Hartman; "Homer Reed," Leo Goulden; "Mrs. Homer Reed," Gertie White; "Cordelia," Rena Dickert; "Buck Hollis," Granville Miller; "Chiquita," Viola Small.

Anita and Diana, who have been reared to regard gambling as something of a major vice, decide to gamble on the stock market regardless, and with beginner's luck they win four hundred thousand dollars. In order to keep Morgan, Anita's fiancé, from discovering the situation, they tell him that the money was left Anita by an Uncle William who died in the west. Morgan and his mother are anti-gambling addicts and the engagement would stand in jeopardy if they found out how the money was really secured. The little lies grow beyond control of the two girls in an amusing series of climaxes. Most amusing and concerned is Grandma, who has to be convinced that she had a son, William. This play provides a most amusing theatrical evening for those who prefer light comedy with a farcical touch.

Voting Record For Congressman Gross

VIENNA DAMAGE LIGHT COMPARED WITH BERLIN'S

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP World Traveler)

Vienna, March 18 — Dr. Karl Renner, president of this storm-tossed little republic, tells me he believes that "the great hope for Austria is Vienna itself."

"Vienna," says the doctor, "is destined to be the international center of culture. Vienna has so many treasures of old culture that it will be forever a point of sight-seeing. It is a base for air transport. If you want to see Europe in three days, come to Vienna, all is here."

"Vienna knows nearly all the languages of importance. That's the good heritage of the old monarchy. We don't want to restore the monarchy, but we are proud to be its cultural heir."

From this it will be clear that the liver-haired chief of state, with his benign countenance and twinkling eyes, is by way of being a smooth salesman. He injected this lure for tourists into a long interview which I had with him at the chancellery on Austria's general position and her hopes, and he did it so adroitly that it was as fitting as a new hat for Easter.

Repair Work Underway
As a matter of fact I was glad Dr. Renner raised this subject, because it impelled Mrs. Mack and me to re-examine the capital with an expert guide to make a fresh assay of the damage sustained in the siege towards the close of the war. Of course, Vienna was terribly hurt by bombing and gunfire, but a city like the human body—it can endure grievous injuries and recover without showing many scars.

Now I don't want to inject any over optimistic language into this dispatch. Vienna is heavily damaged, but when we have emphasized that point it can be added that relatively speaking she came through her ordeal pretty well. As compared with Berlin, for example, the Austrian capital is in good shape. Berlin is just a shell of its once proud self and must be rebuilt from the ground up—a task of many many years—but Vienna's damage can be repaired in many important instances.

You get encouragement for that idea if you make your way around the Ringstrasse, famous as a promenade in days of peace. Along that boulevard stand many of Vienna's noted buildings and it's surprising what a large number have survived the bombardment, in whole or in part. A good deal of repair work already is under way, too, so that you feel the pulse of life, whereas in cities like Berlin, where there has been virtually total destruction, you don't need to be told that they are dead.

Methodists To Begin Improvements Soon

Plans for renovation of the interior of the Methodist church were completed Sunday evening at a special meeting of the official board. Dr. R. D. Wickerham, chairman of the trustees announced today. The session was held following the regular evening service at the church.

The Hampshire corporation of Baltimore was authorized to place soundproofing board on the ceiling and back of the church to better the acoustics of the structure and Harvey Bushman was employed to re-paint the interior of the church after the Hampshire company has completed its work which will start next Monday.

Meantime painting and other improvements to the basement of the church will continue, the board decided.

Robert E. Berkheimer was named as lay delegate to the annual Methodist conference to be held at Altoona in April and Mrs. Milton R. Remmel was named as alternate.

Many Cameras Are Seized At Capital

Washington, March 18 (AP) — To-day, as every day, from 100 to 300 cameras will be taken from people who come to gander at the nation's capitol.

Why? Well, the truth is that many a congressman loves to have his picture taken — but only when he's looking pretty.

Or, as David Lynn, architect and general manager for the capitol, puts it: "Several congressmen object to having their pictures taken when they don't know about it."

The present rule for visitors: No picture anywhere on the capitol grounds or in any of the buildings unless your congressman says it's okay.

Give!

When disease or epidemic threatens, modern drugs are essential. To combat sickness and help maintain the health of war victims, the American Red Cross includes penicillin among its medical supplies for overseas distribution. Your contribution of $7.60 to the Red Cross fund will enable shipment of 10 vials of penicillin, each containing 100,000 Oxford units.

PARIS TRIAL OF DOCTOR BEGINS

Paris, March 18 (AP)—Black-Bearded Dr. Marcel Petiot, charged with murdering perhaps as many as 63 persons, goes on trial in a Paris court today.

The 55-year-old beetle-browed little physician is charged with luring his alleged victims to his home, a large house behind a 20-foot wall, with promises of helping them to escape from Nazi-occupied France in return for a fee.

A miscellany of human remains, including partially burned limbs and bodies contorted in a lime pit, were found by police summoned two years ago to the home by neighbors, who complained of thick, malodorous smoke. The smoke was found to be coming from a white-hot furnace in which human remains were later discovered.

Thirty-nine valises containing 97 petticoats, 57 pairs of socks, 97 shirts and other clothes were found at another house.

The state also has charged Petiot with dismembering the bodies of some victims and leaving the packaged remains in the Bois de Boulogne or dropping them into the Seine River. Twenty-seven victims have been identified—mostly Jews, who the state says, paid large sums because they thought they would be helped to escape from the Nazis.

Petiot admitted on pre-trial interrogation that he killed or helped to kill 63 persons, but maintained the victims were collaborating with Germany and that he was the head of a resistance band which executed traitors.

FRIENDLY VISIT BRINGS POLICE

Sometimes friends can cause more excitement than they would think when they drop in unexpectedly. State police tell the story of a Hunterstown resident and the case of the apparent robbery attempt. Since nobody wants to place any charges and damages have been paid, the police won't name any names but here is what happened:

The unnamed occupant of the house heard a noise and crash outside his home. Frightened, he fled the building, hearing the shouts of the apparent robber following him. Disappearing into the fields the householder watched until the dark shape of the intruder disappeared then crept warily back to the house.

The only damage caused by the intruder was to a spare stove which sat outside the house. It had been overturned causing the noise. It was slightly damaged.

State police began an investigation but the house occupant found out the details first.

His friend came to see him again to wonder why in the name of all creation he had run out of the house and away when visitors came to see him? The two laughed about the incident. The damage to the stove over which the friend had stumbled in the darkness, was paid and all was well.

Ukraine Churches Break With Vatican

Moscow, March 18 (AP)—After three and a half centuries of affiliation with Roman Catholicism, the Uniat churches of the western Ukraine have severed connections with the Vatican and will rejoin the Russian Orthodox church.

A letter sent to Generalissimo Stalin and signed by church officials said that 216 delegates to a church assembly at Lwow decided "to return to the bosom of our grandfather, the Holy Russian Orthodox Church."

The Uniat churches affected are in a region which was part of Poland before 1939, but now is in the Soviet Ukraine. The letter said the churches had been brought under the Pope by the Union of Brest in 1596, "wherein imperialist noble Poland, with the help of proud, power-loving Rome, broke up the tribe unity of the east."

(Of eastern origin, the Uniat church acknowledges the primacy of the pope, but differs from the Latin church in discipline and liturgy.)

into the basement before it started on its planned trip upward.

Among the earlier nurses was an English girl, Ruth Carruthers, who worked there for several months while in the U. S. visiting a brother who was a minister at Philadelphia. Mrs. Frank Slonaker was first cook, and the entire hospital was a flurry of excitement every time one of the first events, birth of a baby, first operation, first X-ray took place, with the reports going back to the kitchen to Mrs. Slonaker regularly from the nurses.

As the number of patients at the hospital increased so did the number of nurses with the present staff being nearly five times larger than the original group.

After the first superintendent married Donald Eicker, then editor of The Gettysburg Times, Miss Elizabeth Thomas became superintendent, it was recalled, and then Miss Martha McKay took over the superintendency, a post she held for years.

Miss Sarah J. Clark followed Miss McKay as hospital superintendent, and was succeeded by Miss Emily C. Allison, who was superintendent before Mrs. Kepner. The late John D. Keith served as president of the board of directors from January to August, 1941.

DOPESTERS PICK MUHLENBERG TO PLAY WILDCATS

By JOE REICHLER

New York, March 18 (AP)—If the odds manipulators are right, it will be the Muhlenberg Mules versus the Kentucky Wildcats for the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden Wednesday, March 20.

For the second successive time Rhode Island State's Rams will find themselves in the role of underdogs when they meet Muhlenberg in the opening game of tonight's semi-final round. In a similar short-end situation are the West Virginia Mountaineers who are rated eight points below Kentucky, the tourney's top-ranking quintet, in the second contest.

While the Mules may figure to have much of a kick for the Rams, it would not be at all surprising should the upstarts come out on the long end of the score, especially if they can approach their first round performance against Bowling Green. In that game Rhode came from behind to tie the tourney's second seeded quintet when Ernie Calverley sank a 55-foot shot with seconds of regulation time remaining and went on to win in overtime by a record breaking 82-79 score.

Defeated Syracuse

Muhlenberg itself was a surprise victor in its first round engagement, beating favored Syracuse 47-41. The Mules' deliberate ball-handling and rugged work under the basket figures to offset the Rams' one-horse style of offense and their race-horse shots from all corners of the court. The Mules' answer to Calverley is Oscar (Red) Baldwin, who scored 23 points against Syracuse and Harry Donovan, who registered 335 points during the regular season.

Penn Hall, NYU Divide Honors

New York, March 18 (AP)—Penn Hall of Chambersburg (Pa.), broke even in two athletic meets with New York university girls teams.

Penn Hall's swimming squad edged the Violet 32-20, but the Pennsylvanians' basketball five was edged 37-30.

National swim marks were broken "unofficially" by Penn Hall's Peg Pete in the 50-yard breast stroke (26.6 seconds) and Lila Thomas in the 50-yard backstroke (26.9 seconds). Officials said a lack of sufficient timekeepers would keep the marks out of the record books.

Trojans LOSE TO LANCASTER

Lancaster high school's eagles won the District 3 PIAA championship Saturday evening by upsetting Chambersburg, South Penn titlists, 43-37 before approximately 3,000 fans in the Hershey Industrial school gymnasium.

With the defeat of the Trojans the five-year domination of District 3 by South Penn league champs ended. Coach George Forney's Gettysburg high dribblers won the district laurels in 1941, 1942 and 1943 while Chambersburg grabbed the honors in 1944 and 1945.

Lancaster, Central Pennsylvania league champions, meets Radnor, District 1 kings, at Allentown Tuesday.

PHILLIES LEAD NATIONAL LOOP

New York, March 18 (AP)—It may not be like that once the regular campaign begins but right now the Philadelphia Phillies are leading the National league—in the grapefruit standings. The New York Yankees are setting the spring race among the American league teams.

The Phils, in winning seven of their 10 exhibition games, boast a 5-2 record against big time opposition. Ben Chapman's crew has whipped the Boston Braves three times, Brooklyn once and the Philadelphia Athletics once. The A's and the New York Giants have defeated them.

Cards Slow Starting
The Yankees, whose three weeks of training in Panama gave them an edge on their rivals in conditioning, have won 18 of their 21 games, but more noteworthy have swept aside all big league opposition. Of their eight straight victories against major league rivals, four have been at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals, favorites to cop the National league flag, one against the American league champion Detroit Tigers and two against the Boston Red Sox. A team that is expected to figure prominently in the junior circuit's pennant chase.

A surprise of the spring is the inability of the Tigers and Cardinals to get started. The world champions have only three victories against big opponents, all against major league opposition. The Tigers have won only one game and have lost eight.

Reading Wins KC Championship Again

Williamsport, Pa., March 18 (AP)—Reading Central held the Knights of Columbus scholastic basketball crown for the second consecutive year today—its 29-22 victory over St. James of Chester the deciding triumph that annexed the title.

Reading is the only quintet to win the championship twice in a row. In a consolation game—both contests were played here Saturday—Central Catholic of St. Mary's drubbed Lansford 40-22. St. Mary's had lost to Chester in the semi-finals, 41-25; Reading swamped Lansford 52-19.

ALLENTOWN TO DEFEND

Allentown, Pa., March 18 (AP)—Allentown Central Catholic will defend its state Catholic scholastic basketball crown against an invader Pittsburgh North Catholic high squad Saturday in Rockne Hall here.

Allentown's Vikings fought their way into the state finals by defeating Harrisburg Catholic, 52-45 at Easton Saturday.

Old gypsies had a marriage system which did not preclude marriage with nieces or half sisters.

SWEDISH STARS OF TRACK FAME DECLARED PROS

Stockholm, March 18 (AP)—Sweden's famed running twins, Gunder Haegg and Arne Andersson, have come to the end of their record-breaking trail.

The two outstanding middle-distance racers, who hold eight world standards between them and who came within less than two seconds of achieving the four-minute "dream" mile, were declared professionals yesterday by the Swedish Athletic Association board and barred from amateur competition for life.

In one of the most sweeping actions in amateur sports history, the board, after holding a secret two-day conference on an island in Lake Maehler, not only ruled out Haegg and Andersson but also penalized seven other runners of lesser reputation for infractions of amateur regulations.

Acknowledge $10,000
Other Swedish athletes involved in the investigations which began last November were cleared because of "insufficient proof." The Swedish press said they numbered between 30 and 40.

While the board did not reveal the amount of money Haegg and Andersson were accused of receiving for participating in track meets, a reliable source told the Associated Press they acknowledged receiving 40,000 crowns (approximately $10,000) when asked to make a report to the association. Swedish sports writers generally estimated their financial rewards "at more than 75,000 crowns" ($18,500).

Holds Seven Records
(In New York, Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A.A.U., who handled Haegg's U. S. tours in 1943 and 1945, said the Swedish swiftie received only $1 a day for incidental expenses while he was here in addition to allowances for meals, hotels and transportation).

Haegg, who made a triumphal tour of America in 1943 when he ran on outdoor tracks and was a dismal flop two years later on the U. S. indoor circuit, holds seven of the most prized records including a 4:01.4 for the mile. The Malmoe haberdasher's standards also include 8:42.8 for two miles; 13:32.4 for three miles; 3:43 for 1,500 meters; 5:11.8 for 2,000 meters; 8:02.2 for 3,000 meters, and 13:58.2 for 5,000 meters. In addition he anchored the Malmoe A. C. team to a universal mark of 15:38.6 for the 6,000-meter relay. Andersson, who brought the mile record down to 4:01.6 before Haegg regained supremacy, is holder of the world record of 2:56.6 for three-quarters of a mile.

Records May Stay

Bo Lindman, chairman of the board, said that the marks set by Haegg and Andersson will remain in the Swedish books. Whether the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which holds supervision over world standards, will allow the records to stand was open to conjecture. Swedish sportsmen, however, pointed to the precedent set by the I.A.A.F. in the Paavo Nurmi case of over a decade ago. The Flying Finn was barred but the international body permitted his records to stay in the books.

In handing out the decisions, the board said it intended to propose revision of amateur regulations and penalties to the I.A.A.F.'s next meeting in Oslo this fall.

The board did not say whether this means it would try to have Haegg and Andersson reinstated in time for the 1948 Olympics in London.

Pa. Bowlers Roll In Buffalo Today

Buffalo, N. Y., March 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan squads predominated in today's singles and doubles competition in the 43rd annual American Bowling Congress tournament.

The Ohio contingent included Keglers from Youngstown, Dayton and Akron. Pennsylvania was represented mainly by Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, while the Michigan area sent large groups from Detroit and Muskegon.

In the all-events, the Keglers aimed at a 1,919 total set last night by a former Milwaukeean, Frank Benkovic, now a Dallas, Tex., resident, who represents Chicago in the meet.

Benkovic, 41, who shared doubles titles in the 1932 and 1933 ABC tourney, shot his current overall pacesetter tally on a second-place singles count of 671, a 590 doubles and 658 in the team event with the Chicago King Pins.

Pa. Woman Bowler Makes 7-10 Split

Erie, Pa., March 18 (AP)—Emma Anderson, of Philadelphia, stole the spotlight in the eighth annual tourney of the Pennsylvania Women's Bowling Association here last night by making the almost impossible 7-10 split. She did it during the doubles competition, but finished far down the list.

Philadelphia bowlers took the lead in all divisions of class A competition as the tournament wound up its second week-end.

The leaders:
Teams—Esslinger Stars, Philadelphia, 2,679; Gretz Bowlerettes, Philadelphia, 2,679.

Erie School Wins Swim Championship

State College, Pa., March 18 (AP)—Erie's strong Vincent showed its heels to all opposition in annexing the unofficial PIAA swimming title. Strong Vincent, winning three first in eight events, amassed 42½ points Saturday to clearly outdistance Erie East, second with 29.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Jackie Robinson, the Montreal Royals' negro infielder, failed to get a hit in his precedent-shattering debut against the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday. Robinson was the first negro player ever to participate with whites in an exhibition game for which admission was charged in Florida.

A crowd of about 4,000 fans, including 1,000 negroes, saw the Dodgers win 7-2.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Lefty Joe Page is due to start for the New York Yankees against the Cleveland Indians at Clearwater today. The Yanks, unbeaten in Florida competition, scored four runs in the seventh inning yesterday to beat the Boston Red Sox 4-2.

Long Beach, Calif., March 18 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, cheered by the performance of veteran Ted Lyons yesterday despite a 5-1 setback by the Chicago Cubs, meet Pittsburgh here today in another game of a long series with the Pirates.

Lakeland, Fla., March 18 (AP)—The world champion Detroit Tigers today faced 12 to 14 weeks of play without the services of Rookie Outfielder Walter (Hoot) Evers, whose .409 batting average has been one of the few bright spots in Detroit's seven straight training camp defeats. Evers fractured an ankle in yesterday's 8-3 loss to the Cleveland Indians.

Anaheim, Calif., March 18 (AP)—Righthander Ellis Kinder, whose 19-6 record with Memphis topped southern association pitchers in 1944, informed St. Louis Browns officials of his recent army discharge and was advised to report here immediately. He will be the 24th hurler on the squad.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 18 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies' hold-out list was cut in half today with the reported signing of Infielder Roy Hughes. Only Jack Kraus, a southpaw hurler, still is dickering for more money.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Pitchers Bobo Newsom and Luther Knerr were the cause of Connie Mack's smiles today. The Philadelphia athletic's hurlers pitched two-hit ball to shut out their hometown rivals, the Phils, 4-0 yesterday. Both safeties were made by Phil's first baseman Frank McCormick.

LETTER VIII

Beloved, days go slowly by,
But busy with my tasks am I,
And busy with my double share
Of morning, noon and evening care.
Time was I often heard you say:
"What will you do when I'm away?"
The birthdays and the dates they fall!
Who will remind you of them all?"

Beloved, 'twas a joy to find
The record of your heart and mind—
The little book you used to keep
Beneath your linens, hidden deep.
And in your careful writing penned
The name and street of every friend.
The number and the date, that none
Might be forgotten were you gone.

Beloved, there it all appears—
The glory of those golden years!
The many things you used to do
To cheer the lives of those you knew,
As if you'd feared, without a list,
There might be one who would be missed.
We turn its pages day by day
And think of you not far away.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NERO FIDDED
Basil O'Connor, in a Red Cross radio address, said this: "We are throwing ourselves into the peace in a frenzy of gaiety and spending and, in many cases, completely unthinking irresponsibility."

There is, however, no gaiety, no wild spending, and hilarity among the war casualties of devastated Europe, the Philippines, China, and Japan. Our soldiers in foreign lands are not rejoicing at being away from home and loved ones, enduring hardships and illness, many of them still lying in hospital beds, and wondering about the days ahead. An orgy of spending and wild speculation in inflated values is going on in America among those seeking to outdo Nero, who is said to have fiddled while Rome burned. The waste alone in our America would save the lives of untold millions of starving human beings. Is it asking too much for all of us to eat less and give more to an agency that has brought joy, relief, and hope to millions in all parts of the world? This is the task of the Red Cross.

There is no nobler organization in the world than the Red Cross. It is non-sectarian, non-political, and wholly humanitarian. This is Red Cross month. Give and give to it. Satisfy yourself, through the fact that you have helped to take away the ache of many a heart, at home and abroad.

Yes, the main war is over. But the war against poverty, suffering, hunger and despair is on in full force. The Red Cross is the greatest agency ever organized to win peace, good will, and understanding among all peoples. Its task is to help and to lift. It is a distributor of hope. We are the "spiritual descendants" of Christ in this noble work of strengthening the arms of the Red Cross in its work of mercy throughout the world. Let not a single one of us fail in his holy privilege.

The Red Cross is a world society. It is being carried on all over the world. Here in America we have an abundance. Let it never be said we shirked in our opportunity for service. Let it never be said that we, like Nero, fiddled while "the last best hope of earth" withered away before our eyes.

Let us make this month of March a Red Cross March to its destined goal of universal peace, relief from all fear, justice among all nations, and a decent happiness.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "In His Steps."

Wire making is one of the most ancient of the metal working craft. In recent months, France experienced its worst floods in 50 years.

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Great Freshet: During Friday, we had gentle rains, which gradually wasted away the large body of snow which remained on the ground, and in the night it commenced pouring out in torrents, which swelled every stream in our vicinity to a height unknown for many years. The loss of fencing etc., in every low land, is very great. We have no doubt that some bridges have been carried away.

We learn that the Bridge over the Susquehanna at Harrisburg, was destroyed by the flood of Friday night!—This will cause great inconvenience.

Married: On Tuesday, the 10th inst., in the Rutgers Street Church, New York, by the Rev. John M. Krebs, D.D., Rev. G. W. McMillan, of Gettysburg, Pa., to Miss R. N. Brand, of New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. McMillan expected to embark at Boston on the 12th inst., for the Madura Mission in India.

The nomination of Hon. George Smysner, as Associate Judge for Adams county, was confirmed by the Senate on the 14th inst.

Six Cents Reward: Left the service of the subscriber, residing in Franklin township, on the 20th inst., an Indented Apprentice to the Farming business, named Thaddeus Nunemaker. The above reward, but no thanks, will be given on returning him to the subscriber.

Steamboat Catastrophe: Almost every mail from the South and West bring accounts of the sinking and burning of steamers on the Ohio and Mississippi.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Sales: Lewis Strouse has bought of Margaret Baker her house and lot West Middle street for $450.

Presentation: On Monday, the 6th inst., the pupils of Locust Grove school in Highland township, presented their teacher, Harman H. Spence, with a very valuable History of the Reformation, as a testimonial of regard.

Notice: The undersigned, going West, has left his Sale Notes and Book Accounts (for Shoemaking) in the hands of Robert Martin, for collection. It is desired that settlements of the latter be made immediately. Those indebted will therefore please call on Mr. Martin, in the North-west corner of the Diamond, Gettysburg.

John F. Smith.

Freshet and Destruction of Property: On Sunday morning a rain set in sometime after midnight, and continued until about noon, causing a rapid rise in the streams in this neighborhood. Stevens Run became a raging torrent, while Rock creek assumed the proportion of a river. Both the stone bridge on the York pike and the wooden bridge on the Bonaughtown road were isolated, the torrent sweeping across the roads on either side. Fences were swept away in all directions for miles.

In the neighborhood of Horner's mill the flood was frightful, the water rising two feet higher than was ever known. Mr. Keilholtz informs us that it was several feet deep on the lower floor of the mill. The bridge over the race was lifted from its position and deposited at the door of the mill. Mr. Keilholtz lost a number of saw-logs and lumber at his sawmill. About 25 feet of the breast of the dam was swept away. The large bridge on the Taneytown road gave way about twelve o'clock and carried a full mile down the stream.

Messrs. Henry Lott, Wm. Furney, James Rider, R. K. McIlhenny, Henry Schriver, Newton Horner, Wm. Cromer, George Mehling, Silas Horner, James McAllister, Henry Welty, E. B. Buehler, Esq., Wm. B. Meals, Josiah Benner, John Welty—indeed almost every land owner along Rock creek for miles—has suffered more or less in the destruction of fences.

We have heard of no loss of life. Mr. David Bettler, of Mountjoy township, made a narrow escape. About 3 p. m., when the waters had already commenced falling, he undertook to drive with a horse and buggy over the bridge on the Baltimore pike. The buggy and horse were swept away by the current, the horse being drowned. Mr. Bettler was thrown from the buggy, and fortunately lodged against a thorn tree along the bank of the stream, where he sustained himself until relieved by some neighbors with the aid of ropes.

Children Learn Best By Helping Grownup Gardners

Teach children the simple gardening skills by your example.

Children love gardens; and the lessons they learn, from sowing seeds, and watching plants grow, are not easily taught by classroom instruction. But to ask a beginner to make a garden of his own often results in disappointment.

It's a good deal to expect, for a child to assume the responsibility of regular care for a garden, when there are so many tempting pastimes beckoning him elsewhere. But if you introduce him to the garden as your helper, teaching the simple skills required by your example, explaining the reasons for what you do, and letting him share your pride of accomplishment, you are likely to have an eager and responsive pupil.

Few children can be interested in a child's garden, but most of them will be delighted to help grow the family garden. It is important that their introduction to this pastime shall not be tedious or involve monotonous tasks which may cause gardening to be associated in their minds thereafter with unpleasant work. Children work willingly when there is a reward to be won. The first lessons should be directed to teaching garden techniques, and letting the pupil see how they are rewarded by vegetables and flowers. In due time, the average child so taught will want a garden of his own. Some may show small interest until they have established their own homes, when they will prove that the lessons which they learned in childhood sank deep, and will never be forgotten.

One of the difficult tasks of educators is to teach city children what the world is really like; to make them understand nature, with which they have small contact. Gardening is an effective means of providing this basic understanding.

Sow New Zealand spinach as soon as the ground is prepared, to improve germination. The hard seeds often live over winter and self-sow in the spring.

Nothing is better for an appetizer than a crisp, spicy radish, picked at its prime, when the flesh is firm, and flavor tart.

SUBSTITUTE IS USED FOR SOIL

Amateur gardeners who plan to start seeds early this year will be interested in a substitute for soil which can be used in seed starters. This is vermiculite, a form of mica which is mined in Montana, then subjected to 2,000 degrees of heat. This expands the material twelve times, and makes it light and highly absorbent.

A cubic foot of vermiculite weighs five pounds and has a water holding capacity of five gallons. It also holds air and retains the granular condition, which is ideal for aeration. The heat treatment makes it sterile, so that seeds sown in the material germinate more promptly and with a smaller loss than when planted in soil.

Insulating Material
Vermiculite is used for concrete aggregate, and also for insulating buildings. It is generally obtainable at lumber yards. Some forms of the concrete aggregate are mixed with substances harmful to plants, so this should be avoided, unless there is assurance that it is harmless. The insulating material, however, is harmless to plants and the particles are coarser and more suitable for filling a flat. It should be passed through a sieve, just as soil is, to separate the finer particles, which should be placed on top, in which to sow the seed.

Sow Seeds Deeper
Sow the seeds a little deeper than with soil. The vermiculite will hold water longer than soil and needs watering less often. The automatic wick method of watering may be used, or the flat may be subirrigated by first lining it with waterproof paper before it is filled, then placing a flower pot in the center, around which the vermiculite is piled. An inch of coarse gravel at the bottom helps spread water evenly, when it is poured into the

Porous Soil Covers Needed To Insure Seedling Growth

Covering seed, after it is sown, is easy to do, and important to do right. If the seed is covered too deeply, or with compact, wet soil, or soil containing so much clay that it will form a hard crust which seedlings cannot penetrate, then the sowing may be lost.

In gardens which have heavy soil, it is a good plan to save your best loose, sandy loam to use in covering seed. Mix all the compost you can, and lacking compost use peat moss. Then after the seed is sown, cover with this special soil, which will not form a crust, and will allow both water and air to penetrate for the benefit of your seedlings.

This treatment is especially important in hot weather, when most soil is liable to bake into a hard crust.

Soil must be firmed above the seeds, to form close contact and prevent air spaces from separating the soil and seed. This is especially important with beet and Swiss chard seeds, and others of large and irregular shape. By firming we do not mean pounding. Press down with the hoe blade, or use the side of a rake; and afterwards draw the rake lightly over the row to break up the crust and prevent baking.

Experienced gardeners learn through trial and error to watch this point, and take precautions to avoid conditions which may prevent seeds from growing. A heavy rain falling soon after seed is sown may pack the soil too hard, especially if it is followed by sunshine. Until the seed has sprouted the soil surface over it should be moist and loose.

When the ground dries out excessively in the spring it will pay to sprinkle the rows in which seed have been sown to prevent them lying dormant for lack of moisture. This is the only time when the garden should be sprinkled, rather than soaked.

SENATORS TALK OF CONTINUING DRAFT 6 WEEKS

Washington, March 18 (AP) — The idea of a six-week compromise extension caught the fancy of some senators today as pressure grew for keeping the draft alive.

Selective Service now is due to expire May 15. The six-week period would carry it to July 1.

With the Senate Military committee set for a full dress review of the subject tomorrow, there were these developments:

1. Secretary of State Byrnes added his pleas to those of President Truman and top army officers when he told a New York audience Saturday night that this country needs military strength to support the principles of the United Nations. He said "the situation will become critical" unless the draft is extended.

2. Members of the House Military committee disclosed secret testimony of War Department officials that the army might fall to only 570,000 men by July 1, 1947, if it has to rely on voluntary enlistments after May 15. That is a half million men below the army's goal.

3. Twenty-six House members joined in sponsoring a resolution calling for a special study of the draft question by a Senate-House committee.

Some members of the Senate Military committee mentioned the six-week extension, saying privately they thought it would give the army enough men, taken with volunteers, to meet its interim needs.

The July 1 date would permit the induction of youths presently deferred to finish the current school term and would provide time for Congress to transfer job right provisions of the Selective Service Act to some other government agency.

Asparagus Beds Well Worth Trouble

Asparagus is an important home garden vegetable because it is impossible to obtain a market supply that can compare with it in flavor and tenderness. Although establishing a bed or row requires more time and labor than almost any other vegetable, a well-kept planting will give profitable yields for ten years or more. Early spring planting is best, and strong one-year-old roots should be chosen. Older ones are difficult to transplant, and their yield falls below that of one-year roots after the first year of cutting.

Manure Benefit

An abundance of lime and superphosphate, besides a complete fertilizer, must be dug into the soil when preparing the trenches. A heavy layer of manure placed about four inches below the roots is well worth its cost if it can be obtained.

Plant the roots eight to ten inches below the normal garden level, spacing them twelve to sixteen inches apart. Be sure that the soil below the roots is well provided with plant food and lime.

Cover the crowns with two inches of soil as a start, filling in more soil as the shoots gain size and strength. Yearly applications of fertilizer and lime worked into the soil in earliest spring are necessary for maximum crops.

Grouse Trials Set By Venango Club

Oil City, Pa., March 18 (AP) — Annual spring trials of the Venango Grouse Trial Club, Inc., will start March 23 over the Martenville trial course in Forest county.

Three stakes will be held, as follows: Open puppy, 20 minute heats, for dogs whelped on or after January 1, 1945; open derby, 30 minute heats, for dogs whelped on or after January 1, 1944; and open all age, one hour, all pointing dogs.

Drawings for the puppy and derby stakes will be held March 22 at 9:30 p. m., and the all age on March 23 at the same hour.

Brook Trout Runs Wild; Kills Six Fish

Philadelphia, March 18 (AP) — A brook trout ran amok at the Pennsylvania State Department of Fisheries exhibit and killed six of his fellows before Warden George James stopped the slaughter—with a net.

"I don't know why the other fish don't have sense enough to gang up on him," James commented after the trout had been caught and exterminated. "But they don't. Not even the Brown Trout and they're a lot bigger than he is."

The trout exhibit is part of the Philadelphia Record outdoor show.

Big Tomato Year Seen In Prospect

Harrisburg, March 18 (AP) — The Pennsylvania Canners association met today at Milton to plan a statewide campaign for handling an anticipated record breaking crop of tomatoes.

E. R. Pheil, at the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Markets, said "the biggest year ever known in Pennsylvania" for the growing of quality tomatoes for canning was in prospect "provided weather conditions are favorable."

The Oder River is more than 550 miles long.

Making Trim Garden Rows Demands Precision Care

When flowers or vegetables are grown in rows, the layout of the garden should be a precision operation. The garden should be rectangular, the rows parallel and straight.

An exception is made for hilly country, where the wash of soil should be checked by contour planting. Here rows should run at right angles to the slope, but they should still be parallel, though on rounded slopes they will be curved.

Serpentine, slanting or uneven rows will double the work of cultivation, and give an appearance of incompetence to the garden.

Rows are spaced with varying distances between them, depending on two factors: The needs of the crop, and the convenience of cultivation. In rich soil vegetables may be spaced more closely than in poor; but when spaced too close together, it is difficult to cultivate between the rows.

For crops growing twelve inches tall or less, rows may be spaced 10 inches to a foot apart and cultivated with hand tools. For cultivation with a wheel hoe, eighteen inches is likely to be found a minimum distance, since it is necessary to avoid disturbing the roots of the vegetables, whatever tool is used.

Taller vegetables, and those that make vines, large bushes, or have a sprawling habit, must be given more distance between rows. In small gardens, four feet will usually be the maximum distance, given only for such crops as bush squash and cucumbers.

After you know where the rows are to be, a line should be stretched to mark the first row.

Board May Be Used

Some gardeners use a straight, narrow board as a ruler to make the row straight. A garden line is likely to be more convenient; heavy lines wound on iron reels are handy, but any strong cord stretched between two stakes will do.

Using the corner of a hoe, draw in the soft soil a shallow trench with this line as a guide. This is known as a drill. In the spring a very shallow trench is called for, in which to sow small seeds. Some prefer to use the end of the hoe handle rather than the corner of the blade. Others have small hoes which they like; but it is more a matter of taste than the tool.

For small seeds such as radishes, onions, carrots, lettuce, and endive, a drill half an inch deep is enough. A little deeper for beets and Swiss chard, and an inch for peas, beans and sweet corn will be sufficient. Shallow sowing is preferred now-a-days in the cool, moist spring, but make drills a little deeper when hot weather comes.

The chief point to watch in making a drill is to keep it straight. Use the line as a guide, but do not put any pressure on it, otherwise you will easily swing it out of line.

Control Aphids On Garden Peas

Among the many strange insect pests which attack food plants, none surpasses the tiny pea aphid in its mysteries of birth and life. Here is perhaps the most amazing insect of the garden, some phases of its life cycle almost defying belief. Yet it is one of the most destructive enemies of early garden peas and must, when numerous, be combated promptly and effectively.

Pea aphids live over winter in this latitude in the egg stage, the small black eggs glued to stems and fallen leaves of alfalfa and clover. From late March until early May the eggs hatch into small wingless nymphs, called stem mothers. These resemble aphids but are slightly darker in their green coloring. Stem mothers give birth to living young aphids without the intervention of males. There are from 12 to 15 generations each summer in this region, all produced without mating. In fact, there are no male aphids around during this tremendous production period. They are not needed.

Along in mid-October the stem mothers begin producing broods which reveal two classes. Some still remain productive mothers, but others are egg-laying females. In this second group or class are enough true males to mate with and fertilize the eggs of the egg-producing females.

Pea aphids prefer garden peas, sweet peas, alfalfa and some of the clovers. However, when alfalfa plants near the bloom stage the sap apparently becomes distasteful to aphids and they fly away to more palatable dining places.

Damage to pea plants from attacks of this insect cannot be measured safely by the number of aphids present at any one time. If the plants are only four to six inches high, even a few aphids may cause serious damages. And if gardeners will compare yields of aphid-free plants with yields from plants which have been attacked by only a few of these pests, the results will be found truly astonishing. Often partly filled pods are the results of aphids damaging the green hulls.

Birds help keep pea aphids reduced. For example, such busy little friends as the house wren, song sparrow and even the hated English sparrow will be seen industriously feeding on the insects. It is always a wise and profitable investment to build and maintain bird houses near the garden and to band the trunks of all trees where birds are likely to build their nests. Freedom from cats remains one of the principal demands of birds to come and serve as insect wardens.

Garden peas should be inspected every day or two. When the first aphids are found the plants should be sprayed with rotenone (derris or cube) or nicotine sulphate in soapy water. Or a rotenone or nicotine dust may be employed. However, if a nicotine dust is used, it should be applied when the air is still and the temperature is at or above 70 degrees.

The editor will be glad to answer all questions gardeners wish to ask on insect subjects, also to furnish readers full directions for preparing rotenone and nicotine dusts at home.

WRESTLING TITLES

State College, Pa., March 18 (AP) — Three high schools—Washington, Farrell and Clearfield—each won two titles in the ninth renewal of the PIAA wrestling championships Saturday to share the unofficial state diadem. Kingston and Forty Fort were the only eastern schools winning championships.

Plum And Prune Spray Schedule

All owners of plum trees or prune varieties should prepare to follow a strict program of protective and preventive sprays. This is particularly true where but a few backyard trees are grown for home use. The editor has prepared a simplified schedule of recommended sprays for these fruits, a copy of which will be sent free to readers who send us their name and address, along with a 3-cent stamp. And if you have any fruit questions, do not hesitate to include them.

GARDENING IS AIDED BY NEW DEVELOPMENTS

Though gardens always have been symbolic of peace, an enormous expansion of garden activity took place during World War II. This was accompanied by scientific discoveries which will make the work of post-war home gardeners so easy that Dr. Vernon T. Stoutmeyer, of the United States Department of Agriculture, has predicted we shall see an era of "push-button gardening."

Doctor Stoutmeyer was describing to 500 members of the Horticultural Society of Chicago his newly developed method of starting plants in a basement seed box under artificial light with automatic watering. This method, he said, permitted such perfect control of light, heat and water that a man or woman could sow tomato seeds in March, turn on the lights and adjust the thermostat, then go to Florida for five weeks and return to find his plants grown strong and sturdy, ready to set out in the garden as soon as danger of frost was over.

Push-Button Life

"Life in many aspects has been reduced by science to the simple matter of pushing a button in order to produce results which formerly involved much experience, hazard and hard work," said he. "Perhaps it is time that gardening joined the list of easier things to do."

The millions of Victory gardeners who plan to keep on gardening not only can dodge outdoor work in March weather by using Dr. Stoutmeyer's basement method in which to start their plants but also will have these other remarkable discoveries at their service most of them for the first time this year:

A method of killing the No. 1 weed pest of home gardens, "pusley," or purslane, by spraying the young weeds with kerosene, one quart to 100 square feet.

The discovery that instead of cultivating the garden a "mulch" of lawn grass grown between the rows will keep the soil surface in perfect condition and equal a "mulch" of scarce manure.

"Automatic watering," applicable to seed boxes by which water from a reservoir below the box is lifted by a wick to keep the soil continually moist and uncompacted.

Revolutionary Insecticide — And finally, a revolutionary type of insecticide — sodium selenate — which instead of poisoning insects directly, makes the plant poisonous to pests which die when they attack it. Though strictly limited now to flowers, this discovery opens up a wide field for experiments which may develop similar insecticides that can be applied safely to fruits and vegetables.

In short, thanks to science, the post-war gardener is going to see his most serious difficulties overcome the easy way and many of his fondest dreams come true.

The labor shortage during the war set experiment stations working on weed killers which would clean up vegetable crops which normally require hand weeding. This work is still going on, but already it has been found that ordinary kerosene or stove oil, if sprayed on rows of carrots after they make two to four true leaves, will kill all the weeds, including pusley, without injuring carrots. Most of the carrots in New York state and many of those in California were sprayed with kerosene last year. One quart is sufficient for 100 feet of row. The time may be not far distant when all the weeds of a vegetable garden can be killed with a single spray of a selective weed killer which will not injure the crops.

The time may be not far distant when all the weeds of a vegetable garden can be killed with a single spray of a selective weed killer which will not injure the crops.

Ohio State university has just put out a report on experiments made with soil for growing roses which will interest you in any case. They measured the air in soil and the rapidity of its change and found that in good soil the air was completely changed once an hour to a depth of eight inches. Good soil, they report, is coarse and full of "pores," some of which hold air and some water. The ideal soil is made up of 25 per cent air pores, 25 per cent water pores and 50 per cent solid matter.

Keep Soil Loose

But when the surface of the soil is compacted by heavy rollers, walking on it or beating rains, the change of air which is so important is checked and plants suffer. Obviously, cultivation is one way to keep the soil surface loose. The "dust mulch" which old-time gardeners insisted on maintaining is thus justified—not, as they argued, to prevent evaporation of water from the soil, but to permit the rapid exchange of air and thus to supply plants with oxygen.

Must we then continue to culti-

SPACE NEEDED FOR FORSYTHIA

The several species of forsythia or golden bell available at almost all nurseries are among the most beautiful of all flowering shrubs. Their graceful habit, rugged constitution, freedom from pests and profusion of blooms have made them universal favorites.

They are most impressive when given ample space to develop to their natural proportions. Hemmed in by other shrubs, they lose much of their graceful beauty, particularly if further interfered with by careless cutting of the branches for indoor display. Since they should be pruned shortly after flowering in the spring, there is no harm in gathering armfuls of sprays provide our gardens? Not at all, says Ohio State. The soil surface can be kept in proper "granular" condition by a mulch or covering of organic matter—straw, manure, grass clippings, peat moss, etc. Or—and here is the new idea—seed of Chewing's fescue, a lawn grass from New Zealand which grows well in shade, can be sown between the rows after the crops are well started and it will grow rapidly and cover the ground with a live mulch in every way as good as manure. The grass will keep the soil in a "granular" condition, let the air and water in and die out in the fall when its remnants can be spaded under.

Proper Pruning Needed

Pruning in late fall, winter or in early spring, before the flowers appear, invariably deprives the plants of blooming wood. Yet where the plants were not pruned at the proper time, removal of excess branches after the foliage has fallen often improves the appearance. These branches will come in handy where additional plants are wanted. Cut them in lengths of about eight inches and tie in small branches with raffia or soft twine. Have them face all in the same direction. Next select a well drained garden spot for digging a hole not less than eighteen inches deep. Place the bunches in the bottom, standing them upright or inverting them. Fill in the soil carefully around the bundles and above them until all soil has been replaced.

How To Re-Plant

With the arrival of early balmy spring days dig down carefully, remove the bundles, open them and set the cuttings right-side up in rows a foot apart with eight inches between them in the rows. Almost every branch except perhaps those representing the softer end growth, will soon start to form new roots. Shortly after that, leaves will grow from the topmost bud which was left exposed above the soil surface. In a year or two they may be moved to their permanent positions.

K-9 Veteran Gets Military Funeral

Philadelphia, March 18 (AP) — Blackie, a little five-year-old Labrador retriever, probably never dreamed it would happen to him but seven World War II veterans—his pals during 32 months of Pacific fighting—paid him final homage yesterday, a burial with full military honors.

An unofficial "technical sergeant" attached to the 282nd Coast Artillery of the 10th American Army, Blackie was buried in the Cheltenham pet cemetery. A Legion drum and bugle corps played "taps" as his master, James Dadario, of Philadelphia, placed a tiny stone on his grave.

Blackie's army file—the battalion kept his personal history record—shows he was AWOL only once. It also says he left 10 heirs in the Pacific.

the increases approached 500 per cent; Erie, 400 per cent; Mercer and Beaver approximately 200 per cent, and in Northampton, Montgomery, Mifflin and York counties the increase was over 150 per cent.

RESCUE WOMAN MAROONED ON ISLE 14 DAYS

Los Angeles, March 18 (AP)—Physically and mentally exhausted Mrs. Bernice Brown, of Van Nuys, Calif., was rescued by the U. S. Coast Guard yesterday from bleak, uninhabited Anacapa Island, where she was marooned for 14 days after the wreck of a 50-foot fishing boat.

Her husband, 42-year-old Roy Brown, and their friend, John Barta, 38, who sailed with them out of Santa Monica harbor March 2 on a pleasure trip, are believed to have been drowned in the mountainous waves that sank their boat, the Nancy Lee.

Mrs. Brown, 43, managed to survive by hanging for hours to a floating gasoline drum.

Battered By Storm

"We ran into a heavy storm March 3," Mrs. Brown told her rescuers. "Our little boat was whipped around like a feather in a windstorm. Then a huge wave flooded the engine room, and with our power off, we had no chance."

"We cast off a small skiff. Barta and I had climbed in when my husband was washed overboard. He managed to swim to the skiff but it capsized as he reached it. When I came up I managed to swim to the fishing boat, which was now swamped, and got on the bow. But I was washed away as though I was a fly. When I came up again, both my husband and Barta were gone. I didn't see them again."

Tossed from the tops of giant whitecombs to the depths of the troughs, Mrs. Brown was struggling with sea water when she floundered to a gas drum. She hung on for hours until, at night-fall she saw a big rock. With her strength almost gone, she still managed to swim to it and lay there exhausted until the next morning, when she struggled 300 yards to Anacapa Island, 13 miles off Point Hueneme.

Emergency Rations

On Anacapa she might well have expected to starve, for it is not populated and there is no means of existence. Nevertheless, she found a hut once used by the navy, which contained precious emergency rations, barrels of rain water, blankets and a battery radio set.

In front of these surprising discoveries Mrs. Brown collapsed and for three days she was barely able to move enough to feed herself. She had been badly cut and bruised in the wreck of the boat.

Staggering to the beach, she built a signal fire on March 8, and she kept it lighted until she was rescued. On the radio she was able to keep track of the days.

Flashes Of Life

CAGEY HEN

Glendale, Calif. (AP)—Arriving home from a trip to the south, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Forbes opened their automobile trunk. Out fluttered a plump red hen.

The trunk had been opened last in Lorange, La., where the Forbes had visited.

So successfully did the hen stow away that even a California border inspector, rummaging in the trunk, had failed to find her. The Forbes found intact several eggs, laid en route.

WILD WEST

Fort Worth, Tex. (AP)—A cowboy, 32-year old Louis Powers, was walking along Fort Worth's downtown "Canyon of Winds" when a near-gale struck.

The gust blasted his 3-X Beaver western hat to the third-floor ledge of a building across the street. Powers waited. Nothing happened.

The cowboy, a contestant in a current rodeo, went to his hotel, got his lariat, returned, lassoed the hat and walked away without uttering a word to the crowd gathered around.

DOUBLE DUTY

San Diego, (AP)—Two World War II veterans—Kenneth Fountain and Ralph M. Shuck—volunteered to make a house to house canvass to register voters.

Armed with the registration books they started out, returning at intervals to the county registrar of voters office for more books. Yesterday they brought their filled books in again.

"Do you want new ones?" asked Deputy Registrar Howard Gollighen.

"No, thank you," the veterans replied happily. "We accomplished our purpose—we both found houses to rent."

Strike Settlement Approved At Erie

Erie, Pa., March 18 (AP)—Some 7,000 workers at the local plant of the General Electric Corp. voted unanimous approval Saturday of an agreement to end their 58-day-old strike on the basis of an hourly wage boost of 18 1/2 cents. It is estimated that 2,769 languages, exclusive of minor dialects,

Mine Supervisors Will Vote April 1

Pittsburgh, March 18 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has set April 1 for an election at which supervisory employees of four Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. coal mines will vote on union representation.

Union Counsel Samuel Krinsky said approximately 200 bosses will be eligible to vote at Vesta Mines No. 1, 2 and 3, and at the Shan-nopin pit. They include fire bosses, mine crew foremen, assistant mine foremen, mechanical bosses and assistant general mechanics.

The election date is the same as that set for a threatened AFL-United Mine Workers' strike of 400,000 soft coal diggers if agreement on a new contract is not reached with operators.

One of UMW Chieftain John L. Lewis' demands calls for recognition of mine bosses as members of his UMW District 50 affiliate, the United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory employees.

The health secretary at the same time said physicians—either on the staffs of the institutions, named by courts or commissions, or serving as clinicians at venereal disease clinics—are qualified to make the examinations.

Town Briefs

Two tourists to the town were overheard commenting on the town. "Isn't it a shame that the town seems so clean and the flag in the square so dirty?" queried one. "Would seem a good project for one of the veterans' groups, to provide laundry service for the flag. . . . Terrible situation noted by many—to plan only to stop a moment at one of the metered parking spaces and have nary a penny. . . . If anybody wants to know what kind of a borough Gettysburg is let him ask Charles W. Myers, Charley says it is the best town in the country. . . . Doctor A. R. Wentz says that airplanes across the ocean are nice if you want speed, but it does something to a man's nervous system when he finds out he's five or six hours out of time with the clocks of the country where he has arrived. . . . Those two cannon in front of the new VFW home on Carlisle street are anti-tank weapons. The vets plan to place them on a concrete base when the flag pole is erected. One former infantryman swears the guns were made for monuments, stating, "they certainly weren't any good against tanks."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, March 18 (AP)—Looks like somebody should pass a G. I. Bill of Wrongs for the athletes who want to go to college under the celebrated Bill of Rights. . . . Not only are they running onto such things as the recently-reaffirmed Southwestern conference rule that a boy has to go back to the school where he started but in the east some of them are finding it hard to get back into schools where they started. . . . A report from one Ivy league college points out that a lot of boys didn't work too hard while they were waiting for induction and now that they're coming back they're finding the competition is pretty strenuous and the colleges are so crowded they're only taking the better students.

INHUMAN TREATMENT

Lefty O'Doul has inaugurated a new system of battling practice that has his San Francisco Seals moaning so loud they can be heard all the way from their Hawaiian camp to the mainland. . . . Instead of letting each man stay in until he hits three solid licks and bunts one, Lefty makes them pick one good pitch, swing on it and then gallop around the bases, regardless of results. . . . "It forces the batter to pick out a good one and it forces the pitcher to get the ball over the plate," Lefty explains.

MONDAY MATINEE

Gene McEver, former North Carolina university, Davidson and Virginia Tech coach, is toying with an offer from Ted Collins and Bill Shea to coach the Long Island pro Indians next fall. . . . And Harry Smith, who had a swell job in a Kansas City aluminum plant, gave it up to become an assistant to Don Paurot at Missouri because he couldn't stand being away from football. . . . Dinny Pails, the young Australian tennis star, uses up three tennis shirts during each three-set match and his wife washes them all for him. Pails really is Dinny's name. . . . Eppy (Mr. President) Barnes, Colgate baseball coach, has nine former lettermen among 70 candidates

How Long Will SOAP SHORTAGES LAST?

ON THE GLOOMY SIDE

There are not nearly enough fats in the country to make all the soaps, soap powders, and soap flakes you want. So short is the supply, the government must decide how much fat can be released to make soap and other peacetime goods.

Besides, the supplies of soaps many of you housewives have had in reserve are running low — and the demand for soaps is increasing.

ON THE BRIGHT SIDE

Most of you housewives have continued to turn in fats. You've helped keep our industrial fat supply large enough to meet minimum needs.

But it's a close race. Any letdown on your part can mean less soap for everybody.

By turning in used fats you're helping to bring back bigger supplies of scarce soaps. Keep on the job, get 4¢ for every pound.

UNION TO GIVE SIDE OF STORY

Pittsburgh, March 18 (AP)—Representatives of the Independent Association of Employees of the Duquesne Light company were expected to present their side first at opening arbitration hearings today on a wage dispute between the company and the union.

Hearing the case as arbiters were Chairman Aaron Horvitz, named by the U. S. Conciliation Service; Union Attorney Herman Lipsitz; and Maurice R. Scharff, of New York, named by the company.

Acceptance of arbitration by the company and the 3,400-member union staved off resumption of a 19-hour power strike February 12 which halted transportation and disrupted light and power service in Allegheny and Beaver counties.

Hourly wage increases of 21 to 25 cents were last demanded in futile negotiation sessions in the office of Mayor David L. Lawrence.

Each side will have four days to present its case, and the arbiters must reach a decision by March 30.

Clark Promises To Attack Monopolies

Washington, March 18 (AP)—Attorney General Tom Clark disclosed today that the Justice Department soon will launch a "vigorous campaign against monopolies" in an effort to help returning veterans and small businesses.

Promising "hardhitting enforcement of the anti-trust laws," Clark said in an interview that veterans must have an opportunity to start businesses of their own and to operate in a free market.

"The power of monopoly," the attorney asserted, "must not be permitted to eliminate opportunity and to undermine the free market. The new plants and knowledge gained during the war must be used.

"New industries arising from the war must be kept competitive. Small business must have a chance to enter the market and get raw materials."

Chapter 17

There was no one to turn to, no one to consult, no one to help her. She read and re-read these words, scrawled on what seemed a scrap torn from a paper bag.

"I think — it's Wren —" she said to herself. "He tried to tell me something before. He's still here..." She thought of Rogers. If Wren were really in danger...? But Rogers would find him and arrest him, send him to prison.

"Aunt Emma wants me to go," she thought.

After all, was it Wren who had written? It might be someone else. Uncle Rufus, perhaps? He had told her plainly enough that he believed his life to be in danger, and had asked her to remain here. Perhaps he had been somehow intimidated, and dared not urge her to stay while those people were in the room.

But whoever had written, and whatever the cause, she could not go until she had discovered the meaning of that note. She took off her hat and almost laughed. "I can't go," she thought. "I'll never be able to leave—"

That was a bad thought to entertain. Never be able to leave? Had she known that the first day she came here? Something had weighed so heavily upon her then.

"No!" she said to herself. "I cannot think — things like that. I have no one but myself to depend on now. I've got to keep cool. I've got to be sensible."

She tore the note into fragments, and putting them into the washbasin, let the water run on them until they were washed down the drain.

What helped her was the thought that some other human creature had appealed to her.

"I've got to find out," she said to herself. "I've got to use my wits."

There was, first of all, the ordeal of telling Aunt Emma that she had changed her mind about going. She discovered then that she was afraid of Aunt Emma; Uncle Peter had been brutal, Uncle Rufus not much better. Miles was dangerously uncertain, yet of all the inmates of this house, Aunt Emma, who had tended her kindly when she was ill, who had brought up her meals, Aunt Emma was the one she feared most.

"But I have the advantage now," she told herself. "Aunt Emma expects to get money from me. She can't afford to antagonize me. I've got to use that advantage."

She opened her door and went out into the corridor. There was no reason why that long red-carpeted hall should seem horrible to her; no reason to think the silence here was sinister... A door opened behind her, and Aunt Emma came out. "Ready?" she asked. "If you are, I'll call Miles."

"I've been thinking—" said Di. "While I was dressing I felt—quite miserable... If you don't mind, I'd like to stay here, in the country, for another day or so, until I feel better."

Aunt Emma made no answer for a time.

"I think you're making a mistake," she said at last. "This house isn't good for you."

A threat, was that?

"The country's so pretty, this time of the year," said Di.

"You're highly nervous and impressionable," Aunt Emma went on. "If I'd realized that before, I'd never have let you come here. There's something about this house..."

She came quickly down the hall, and turned the knob of the door next to Uncle Rufus's room. It opened, she looked at the lock, looked down at the floor, and then closed the door again.

"Let me try your key!" she said, and Di gave it to her.

"No, it doesn't fit," she said. "Very well! If you're going to stay here, let me earnestly warn you against going into that room."

Aunt Emma stood with her back to the door, looking at the girl with a faint smile. Di looked back at her, not understanding, yet uneasy.

"I believe you went in there once by mistake, thinking it was Uncle Rufus's room," said Aunt Emma. "Perhaps you felt then that it wasn't—" she paused—"a good room for you to be in." She added with the grim shadow of a smile: "If you're going to stay here, I warn you, for your own peace of mind. There's nothing there. See?"

She flung open the door, and Di saw a neat bare room with the usual hotel furnishings. Aunt Emma closed the door again. "Don't go in there—if you can help it."

"That shouldn't be difficult," said Di, smiling herself.

For she was, to the best of her ability, defying Aunt Emma. She knew she must do this, for the good of her soul. She must not be repressed or dismayed.

"Can I help you with the lunch?" she asked.

Aunt Emma accepted the offer, and they went downstairs together. And all the way, Di was thinking "Why mustn't I go into that room? And why should I want to?"

She remembered going into the room that night, finding it empty and dark, with the wind blowing into it. And hadn't she, even then, felt something there, something terrible...?

"No!" she said to herself. "And anyhow, it doesn't matter. That's not the important thing."

"Did she mean that something had happened in that room? Well, what of it? Nothing to do with me! I must think about that note. I must do something."

With no little effort, she forced herself to return to that subject.

"It must have been written either by Wren or Uncle Rufus. The first thing is, to find out if Uncle Rufus wrote it. If he didn't, then Wren must be somewhere in the house..."

"If I find that Uncle Rufus wrote it, I'm going to tell that detective," she thought. "But if it was Wren—I can't. He did all he could for me. I won't help to send him to jail."

Keeps Faith With His Departed Friend

Reading, Pa., March 18 (AP) — Eighty-year-old Alvah O. Schaeffer kept faith for the 49th time St. Patrick's Day with his dead friend, Tom Hannahoe "mayor of Irishtown."

The pair pledged verbally, shortly before Hannahoe's death in 1897, "that whichever one outlived the other, he would perform a service at the other's grave each St. Patrick's Day at midnight."

Schaeffer stood with bowed head, unmindful of a light rain, as a quartet of musicians played "Lass O'Galway" and "Nearer My God to Thee"—Hannahoe's favorite tunes.

OPA IS CHARGED WITH FOSTERING BLACK MARKETS

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY

Washington, March 18 (AP) — The National Association of Manufacturers called upon Congress today to end price controls on all manufactured goods, contending that OPA is "fostering inflation, enabling black markets to flourish" and slowing down production.

Robert R. Wason, president of NAM, opposed a year's continuation of OPA as asked by President Truman in a statement prepared for the House committee.

Assailing what he termed OPA's propaganda campaign to "frighten" the country into a new lease on life for price controls, Wason declared:

Says Must Halt Fear

"Inflation can never be stopped in this country unless we stop creating fear in the minds of our people through irresponsible statements; assure the public that they will get the goods they want at reasonable prices by taking OPA shacksles off manufactured goods; and bring the federal budget into balance and thereby an end to the growth of the inflationary danger which comes from continuous government deficits."

He termed "false" the administration claim "that only OPA stands between the people and disastrous inflation."

Anticipating this attack, Chester Bowles, economic stabilizer, criticized NAM as an "irresponsible pressure group" in an earlier appearance before the Banking committee, now considering legislation to continue price controls, rent ceilings and consumer subsidies.

STRIKE EFFECT NOT KNOWN YET

Pittsburgh, March 18 (AP) — The full effect of recent steel wage and price increases on Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation earnings has yet to be estimated, the firm announced today in its annual report.

H. E. Lewis, chairman and president, said, however, that some tonnage was sold at a substantial loss during 1945 as compared with 1944. He declared:

"Minor price increases which had been granted last year were not sufficient to offset higher costs of raw materials and an increased trend of labor costs which resulted from interruption of production schedules occasioned by numerous sporadic strikes."

Average earnings per hour for employees rose steadily to $1.30 per hour in 1945, the report said. Average employment was 37,626 persons working 43.6 hours per week. Peak employment, during the war years, was reached in 1942.

Net income for 1945 was announced as $8,082,082, equal to $2.91 per common share, compared with $7,966,663 or $3.14 per common share, in 1944.

munity, should be sufficient reason for retaining Standard Time. They also claim that the new time is confusing for children who retire early... that the extra daylight hour tends to encourage later evening hours for them. In addition they assert that the early morning business hour is not conducive to good business operations.

The Gettysburg Times invites comments on this subject.

What do you think of Daylight Saving Time?

Are you in favor of its adoption by Gettysburg's town council or are you opposed to it?

If council is to act, as it probably will at its April meeting, it would, we feel certain, welcome town opinion on the subject.
